PUBLIC BUILDINGS AND GROUNDS. Not Much Work Can Be Dore This Spring

A Few Needed Improve At the office of the superintendent of public buildings and grounds it was learned this morning that very little can be done this spring in improving the parks around Washington, in addition to the usual spring work of setting out plants, on account of the failure of the appropriation. The only improvement that is contemplated before the new appropriation is available at the beginning of the next fiscal year is that of laying an asphalt pavement on the west side of the monument, where the bill is steep and where gravel pavement is washed badly by every hard rain. There are two improvements for which appropriation is made, for expenditure after July

There are two improvements for which appropriation is made, for expenditure after July I, which are greatly needed. One of these is for a granite curbing around Lafayette square in place of the uncouth stone base of the heavy iron fence which was removed nearly two years ago. The other is for replacing the old flagging pavement on Pennsylvania avenue in front of the Executive Mansion by a grandolithic pavement. Another expenditure which will be made during the next year is that of $40,000 for resurfacing the asphalt pavement at the eastern front of the Capitol. Col. Ernst is now out of town and what his plans are for improvement of parks during the next year cannot be learned at present earned at present.

TORPEDO BOAT NUMBER TWO.

Why No Award of the Contract for Its Con struction Has Been Made. There is a good deal of surprise in the naval circles of the city that Secretary Tracy should delay for so long awarding the contract for the torpedo boat No. 2, for which bids were opened at least two months ago. There were but two bidders, of whom the Cowles firm of New York was the lower on the plans of the government. They have never built such a craft, however, and there is no certainty that their work would be satisfactory, whereas the fortunate experience of the Herreschoffs, the rival bidders, on the Cushing, is an element that prejudices the Secretary in favor of the latter. The Cowles plan contained no novel features, while the Herreschoffs, bidding higher on the same plan, submitted an alternative bid on a larger boat than that called for by the advertisement, with tisement, with certain guarantees of peculiar advantage, according to the claims of the bidders. It is understood that the delay in making the award comes from a desire on the part of the award comes from a desire on the part of the Secretary to give the work to the Herreschoffs, in view of their splendid performance with the Cushing, and is holding off in order to get information on the subject of torpedo boat construction for the purpose of determining the value of Herreschoff's alternative plan. He accordingly requested Lieut. Winslow, the commander of the Cushing, to give him his views on the subject, and that officer responded with a voluminous document that the Secretary has not had time to read. It is not known which way the lieutenant leans, but the Secretary is likely to be guided by his opinion.

Population and the Atmosphere The census office has issued a bulletin upo the subject of the distribution of population in accordance with mean relative humidity of the atmosphere. The reason for publishing these statistics is because of climatic influences on diseases. It shows that nearly all the population of the United States breathe an att phere containing 65 to 75 per cent of its full capacity of moisture—that is, the atmosphere is from two-thirds to three-fourths saturated. is from two-thirds to three-fourths saturated. In 1890 57,036,000 out of 62,622,250 were found 50,155,188, and in 1870, 36,273,000 out of 38,558,371. The number of inhabitants living in a dryer atmosphere was at each census comparatively trifling, numbering in 1870 less than half a million, and in 1850 less than two millions. In the moister atmosphere were found larger numbers scattered along the gulf coast and the shoses of Washington and Oregon.

The most rapid increase, says the bulletin, has been found at the top and bottom of the scale, and particularly in the more arid region, where the population has nearly doubled during each of the last two periods.

The Charges Against Maj. Perry. Gen. Ordway, commanding the District National Guard, said to a STAR reporter this morning that he had nothing to say as yet in regard to the charges which have been preferred against Maj. Perry, whom he had selected to command the colored militiamen. He received the papers in the case from the acting Secre-tary of War yesterday afternoon and has not yet had time to begin the investigation, but would do so as soon as possible. The general did not indicate in what manner the investiga-tion would be conducted.

The constable is busily engaged in investigating the case and will probably have several persons under arrest before night. The Courier reporters learned that the woman was seen in the neighborhood leading to Merchant-ville yesterday afternoon and that she had been ville yesterday afternoon and that she had been drinking with several men, one of whom was said to be "Curly" Daly. Several persons are willing to swear that they saw a negro lead the woman up to the spot where she was found dead, and he is now missing. It is a fact that the woman was in company with a negro, but whether he killed the woman remains to be Nihilists in Posen.

London, March 27.—The important capture of a gang of counterfeiters at Dobra, in Posen, will probably lead to the uncerthing of an extensive nihilistic plot. It was found that the counterfeiters were not vulgar criminals, several of them showing signs of good training and refinement. The gang were betrayed by a woman, a German, who appears to have been the mistress of the chief counterfeiter, a Russian, and was by him discarded, he supposing that she knew nothing about his criminality, of which, however, she was fully aware.

The counterfeiters were taken by surprise, and made a most desperate fight to escape. At first they almost succeeded in overpowering the police, but the arrival of a small but timely reinforcement turned the scale. The gang were compelled to surrender. The counterfeit money was intended for circulation in Russia, and the police believe that the counterfeiters den was really a bank from which the nihilists derived the wherewith to operate against the Russian government. The capture has excited lively interest in St. Petersburg as well as Berlin.

COMBINING THE EXHIBITS. One Large Building Instead of Many Small

ses for the States at the Fair. Curcago, March 27 .- It is probable that one large building for the accommodation of special states exhibits will be erected in Jackson Park instead of two score of similar exhibits in separate state buildings. Heretofore the general plan of the majority of the states seem to have been for each to construct a special building. Such a plan, if carried out, promised to make a series of forty or more buildings and owing to the small appropriations made by some of the states it was feared that the buildings could not be made sufficiently attractive to be in harmony with the general grandeur of the main structures. This plan does not conemplate the exclusion o state buildings alto gether, as some have large appropriations and will be able and may prefer to make separate

The startled women ran shricking for the doors, pulling, hauling and scratching one another in their eagerness to escape. One pid lady, Mrs. Weitheoff, was knocked down and her leg broken by the trampling of the excited throng. As Mrs. Weitheoff is over seventy years old, it is hardly probable that she will recover. It is supposed that the high wind blew out a number of gas jets. Gas accumu-lated and the explosion resulted. The build-ing was not damaged.
